HSA Social justice day workshop

DATE: Wednesday, February 20, 2019

TIME: 8:30am - 4:00pm

PLACE: HSA Head Office - 180 East Columbia St. New Westminster, BC

This Social Justice workshop will focus on two areas – Disability Rights and Transgender Rights.

Part one: Workers With Disability and Ability

This course is designed to explore myths, mistaken beliefs and assumptions regarding people with disabilities. It will raise awareness of barriers that people who are differently abled experience in the workplace. Participants will develop action plans designed to help break down these barriers. Rights and responsibilities for “Duty to Accommodate” will be briefly explored with a few examples of accommodations identified. Participants will gain tools on how to help change attitudes towards those who are differently abled and how to increase workplace accessibility. After this course, participants will have an increased understanding of the stereotypes surrounding people with disabilities, have learned how they can help improve accessibility and working conditions for people who are differently abled and have an appreciation for the Duty to Accommodate and Human Rights Legislation.

Facilitated by SHERYL BURNS

Part Two: My name was January

Workshop participants will view the film, My name was January. Synopsis: When a trans sister, January Marie Lapuz, is brutally murdered in her own home in New Westminster, BC, a community reacts and her friends and other trans women of colour come to share and voice their issues, concerns, and challenges. January was seen as a bright light in the lives of many. This is the story of January, a friend, a daughter, a person. This film will not only bring justice to January, but to all the women who have lost their lives. January had a beautiful soul, and now part of her soul rests in each and every one of us. Workshop participants will engage in an interactive discussions about inclusivity, exploring intersectionality, and oppression survival in the sex trade.
