Delegates reaffirm their support for breast cancer awareness and prevention

July 1, 1998

The Report: July / August 1998 vol.19 num.1

Breast cancer is a serious illness that takes many lives, and HSA members treat the issue with the attention it deserves - so much so that for the second year running, delegates to the annual convention voted to spend $20,000 in union funds to promote the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation's Run for the Cure.

The annual Run for the Cure is the Foundation's key fundraising event. At convention, delegates voted to "contribute a total of $20,000 to the 1998 Run for the Cure, with $10,000 allocated to direct financial support to the Run, and $10,000 allocated for enhancing member and chapter participation and awareness in this event."

Additionally, several delegates signed up to participate in the annual run which takes place this year in Vancouver, Victoria, Kamloops, Kelowna and Vernon on October 4. Many expressed interest in starting runs in their own communities.

This resolution reaffirmed a resolution passed at last year's convention to "embrace and support the mission and objectives of the BC Chapter of the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation."

An HSA Bulletin has gone out to all worksites urging members to sign up for the run, make a pledge, or organize a team. Running isn't necessary - walking and wheeling are also welcome. Prizes will go to those who raise the most money in pledges. Members may wish to participate in a little friendly competition among individuals and chapters to see who can collect the most in pledges.

The Run for the Cure started seven years ago and last year raised $3.1 million. The Foundation gives grants to several projects including breast screening units and group counselling services.

One in nine Canadian women will develop breast cancer during her lifetime, and one in 25 die from the disease. It is the leading cause of death for women aged 35-55.

HSA Executive Director of Operations Maureen Whelan was recently elected to the Foundation's board of directors.
