Bargaining continues, next dates in May

The CBA Bargaining Committee met with Health Employers Association of BC (HEABC) April 1 to 3 to continue the work of renewing our collective agreement.

We have continued to reach agreement on a number of administrative updates and changes. We've also had meaningful discussions on important non-monetary issues such as overtime distribution, bullying and harassment complaint timelines, modified hours of work, and hours of work for Community Health Workers (CHWs).

The next bargaining dates are set for May when we'll continue to work through non-monetary proposals. We also hope to begin discussions around monetary issues such as wages and benefits.

We'll keep you updated as bargaining progresses.
